

°C-Day: Fill The Hill

Who do you love? What fills your heart? Climate change threatens everything we live for. Leading scientists implore us all to act quickly and decisively to mitigate further impacts of this global crisis and time is running out. This December in Copenhagen, world leaders have the chance to make fair and ambitious agreements that can save our planet. We're going to show Canada's leaders that they can make the right decisions.

It's hard not to feel like a drop in the bucket when we try to create a better world on our own. In truth, change comes with a wave of individuals, but every drop is essential. You are essential in the climate wave that will flood Parliament Hill on C-Day. Now is the time.

On October 24 – 350.org's International Day of Climate Action – millions of us in virtually every country on earth will stand in solidarity for a sustainable future. Canada is responding with a movement that rustled in the grassroots, became a whisper on the wind, and has grown to a chant nationwide: FILL THE HILL!

By coming together on Parliament Hill this October 24, Canadian residents from all walks of life will speak in a collective voice. We will demand that our leaders accept their true responsibility. Experts, including chief economists from institutions such as the World Bank, have shown how the benefits of a green economy far outweigh the costs to implement it. If there were ever a time for you to exercise active citizenship, it is now - we can be the change.

Make history. Make the journey. On International Day of Climate Action, FILL THE HILL!

Who: You, thousands of fellow heroes, and all of the friends and family you bring along!

What: A history-making mass mobilization to show our Parliament that, "Yes they can" make wise and just decisions when it comes to climate change. C-Day: Fill the Hill is the focal point of the largest climate action to ever take place on Canadian soil. This will be a day to remember.

Where: Parliament Hill, Ottawa – you won't miss it. There are simultaneous events across the country for those good souls who cannot make the trek to The Hill.

When: October 24th - 350.org's International Day of Climate Action. While we Fill The Hill, we stand in solidarity with millions of people in cities around the world in a global call for fair and binding climate agreements in Copenhagen.

Why: There are boundless reasons to Fill The Hill and we would love for you to tell us yours. Who are you marching for? Seriously. Send us a message, a video, a letter, a tweet. www.climateday.ca

How: Very simply – just get on The Hill. Walk and roll! If you live beyond walking or cycling distance there are still low-impact ways to make the journey. Find suggestions and resources on our website (www.climateday.ca). If you are really far away (Canada is a big country, after all) host your own event in solidarity. Sign up on 350.org!
